

Optical modules rebounded after hitting a low in the morning

Preview

Applied Optoelectronics (AAOI), POET Technologies (POET), Lumentum Holdings (LITE), and Coherent (COHR) rebounded in overnight trading, rising between 1.3% after experiencing sharp intraday declines. The stocks are seeing strong demand and rich valuations due to hyperscalers' increased spending on optical networking gear to ease AI. Shanghai Composite Index rises by 0.64 points, with a turnover of 136.13 billion yuan; the Shenzhen Component Index rose by 0. Nvidia CEO Jensen Huang had high praise today for Marvell, a maker of optical components that he said could become a $1. - The optical module sell-off reflects a timing correction after a 60%+ rally, not a flawed thesis, as demand remains strong with 2027-2028 as pivotal. Optical module manufacturers have become market darlings, posting astronomical returns that have left seasoned investors scratching their heads.
