Preview

Also known as UTP, this is currently the most common and basic method of cable construction, consisting of pairs of wires twisted together. There is no shielding, instead the symmetrical twist in the wires create a balanced transmission line, helping to reduce electrical noise. When it comes to copper cabling, choosing the level of shielding you want the cable to have can prove a minefield of confusing acronyms and perplexing industry technology. We've put together this handy guide to help you understand the meaning of some of the most common terms. The shielding inside. OFC means "of course" when used in texting and digital spaces. The CC field signals that the recipient is an informed party, not a primary audience member expected to respond. Vertical Elevation: Situated or extending to a great distance upwards.
